

BLACK FLAG

BLACK FLAG, SUBHUMANS, NEOS, SACCHARINE TRUST

July 1 O.A.P. Hall, Victoria, B.C.

first up were the Neos, I wasn't really expecting much, after listening to their record, but they suprised me. they were great real hardcore thrash next up came Saccharine Trust they were pretty good they're a lot more hardcore than what their recordings might suggest. then came Black Flag who were not the almighty saviors of the earth that most Victorians thought they were they were excellent yeah, but I've seen better Dez Cadena could've been a bump on a log considering all the effort he put into his act. I would've liked to have seen Black Flag a few years ago when they were really good. the Subhumans were last and played their usual fantastic set blew everybody away and that was it. as an added bonus the Victorians themselves provided some hilarious entertainment slot of them were really stupid and they've divided themselves into 2 different groups both of which hate each other they provided a lot of amusement insulting each other, talking behind each others backs and threatening to beat each other up. all in all it was a great concert.

SACCHARINE TRUST

BLACK FLAG, SACCHARINE TRUST, THE WRECKS, BRAINEATERS

July 3 West End Community Centre, Vancouver, B.C.

the Wrecks came on first. I thought they were great but most of the crowd wasn't that impressed they self-destructed about halfway through their set. they called it quits after that and do not exist anymore Sacch. trust then came on. they were just as good as they were in victoria. the Braineaters are a couple of guys in make up and miniskirts who bored me almost to tears. Black Flag weren't near as good as they were in Victoria, they played a lot more slow, boring, heavy metal songs. all in all it was okay

Wimpy of the subhumans gruntin' away

HONDA CIVIC, RESISTANCE 134, BALANCE OF TERROR

August 20, Kadac Hall, Kelowna

Honda Civic came on first they were just a fuck band and all they played was covers but they were kinda neat anyway they played a snazzy version of Hawaii 5-0. next on was resistance 134 who were better then anyone expected/they played a solid set. then we got invaded by a horde of religious fanatics. none of the bums payed either! we allowed a couple girls to play 2 real sappy songs of love. Balance Of Terror came on then and thrashed the place down. made up of Keith from R. 134, a couple of Gents Of Horror and Mike on drums B.O.T. are one cool band. a rad concert, alright!

THE NEOS recording their new single it should be out any day now.

Most of the pics were taken by Brian and Dee K. the Kadac pics were taken by Keith (or at least with his camera)
